Thank you for showing your American pride with a commemorative brick on the "Path of Patriotism" at Millville Airport.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum (MAAFM) has reserved a unique area of WWII history for its Path of Patriotism Brick Walkway. Commemorative bricks are laid in a historically revered area under the original WWII flagpole and in front of the historic base headquarters building at America's First Defense Airport, which is now a New Jersey Historic Landmark.

This very location was used for assembly formation and flag ceremonies during the war as servicemen trained for assignments and pilots practiced gunnery during a critical time in America's history.

Fourteen pilots who gave their lives at Millville Airport while training for combat in P-47 Thunderbolt aircraft stood at attention on these same historic grounds, saluting the American flag under the same flagpole that stands today.

Each brick currently installed or being installed has its very own story. The stories of those remembered in these bricks are unique and important. The bricks say thank you for serving our country with integrity and honor and speak of respect for those who put duty above self. They commemorate those who gave their lives for our freedom. All are honored at Millville Airport's Path of Patriotism Brick Walkway.
