MAAFM Celebrates the Tuskegee Airmen of World War II ...with a presentation from veteran Tuskegee Airman Dr. Eugene Richardson

Our museum was honored to present a celebration of the Tuskegee Airmen of World War II on September 27, with featured speaker WWII Veteran Tuskegee Airman Dr. Eugene Richardson of Philadelphia.

100-year-old Dr. Richardson completed 40 weeks of training at the Tuskegee Army Air Field and graduated as fighter pilot on March 11, 1945. He flew both P-40 Warhawk and P-47 Thunderbolts.

Dr. Richardson spoke about the famous Tuskegee Airmen of the U.S. Army Air Forces, also known as the "Red Tails", who were a group of primarily African-American military pilots and airmen who fought in World War II.

Flying P-47 Thunderbolts and, later, P-51 Mustangs, the Tuskegee Airmen formed the 332nd Fighter Group which was part of the 15th Air Force. They successfully protected American Bombers from German fighter planes during missions over Italy.

Nearly 100 guests attended Dr. Richardson's presentation which was held in the museum's Wyble Library.

"The Millville Army Air Field Museum was thrilled to host a Dr. Richardson to honor his service and that of all Tuskegee Airmen," said Bob Trivellini, MAAFM vice president. "He has visited our museum several times in the past and we thank him not only for his service to our country but for sharing his knowledge with so many others through his friendship to our museum."

Mel Payne, president of the Greater Philadelphia Chapter of the Tuskegee Airmen, Inc., shared the history of the Tuskegee Airmen and introduced Dr. Eugene Richardson.

MAAFM's 24th Annual Veterans Appreciation Day honored all veterans for their service

Maddie Manno, Rowan University student, sang the National Anthem as the Semper Marine Detachment #205 from Vineland, New Jersey, presented the colors.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum paid tribute to our nation's veterans on Saturday, November 1 — with a moving ceremony and noon luncheon — at its 24th annual Veterans Appreciation Day. More than 200 veterans, family members and guests attended the event that recognized all veterans.

Guest speaker for the event was Millville, New Jersey, native Donna Pio whose father, Staff Sergeant Robert (Bob) D. Goldstine, was a U.S. Army Air Corps World War II veteran who served at the Millville Army Air Field as a P-47 Thunderbolt mechanic. Donna described her celebrate the 85th anniversary of August 2, 1941. On that day, the Millville Army Air Field was dedicated as America's First Defense Airport and charged with defending the Atlantic coastline from foreign invasion. A few months later, Pearl Harbor was attacked and America formally entered the war raging in Europe and the Pacific.

On the day of that dedication, thousands came out to the airport to witness an air show and to hear speeches from Millville native Leon Henderson, military leaders and local and Washington politicians. For many, that air show was likely the first they had ever seen.

In 1988 the volunteers who established the MAAFM began another proud history – to preserve Millville's unique role in America's military history. No other place can claim to be the site of

President's Message

This will be a milestone year for our country and for the Millville Army Air Field Museum (MAAFM). One month after the July 4 celebration of America's 250th birthday, we will America's "First" Air Defense Airport. And, since 1988, we have educated visitors about that history and honored the memory of the more than 10,000 men and women who served here.

One way that we honor their memory is by making sure our museum is free to all who visit. Since the first brooms and shovels began clearing an abandoned WWII building that became the MAAFM, the support of members like you has allowed us to offer free admission to the four, fully restored historic buildings that house our rare collections.

In recognition of the 85th anniversary of the dedication of the Millville Army Air Field, we are offering an historic opportunity to join the MAAFM's 1941 Society. You can read more about the 1941 Society in the pages of this newsletter.

Your support, regardless of the amount, helps to preserve the Millville Army Air Field's simple but inspiring mission to Preserve Millville's unique WWII history, to Honor all veterans, and to Educate future generations of the sacrifices of those who helped protect the freedoms that the founding fathers first bestowed on our nation 250 years ago.

Executive Director's Report

As our museum proudly celebrates its 38th year and marks the 85th anniversary of the Millville Army Air Field, we reflect on another remarkable year of growth and community engagement.

Our visitors continue to share how much they enjoy returning to see the exciting changes and enhancements we've made. Our tours and outreach programs have been incredibly active, helping us reach new audiences and inspiring more people to visit. We take great pride in offering a first-class experience — beginning with an engaging tour of our museum's exhibits and concluding with impressive displays in our courtyard.

Our volunteers — especially our veterans — remain at the heart of our organization. Their passion, commitment, and talent are vital to the success of our many projects, including the restoration of our historic military vehicles.

Looking ahead, our 2026 calendar is filled with exciting events and opportunities to connect with our community. I am deeply grateful to be part of such an inspiring team and look forward with great enthusiasm to the museum's bright and promising future.

Come visit with WWII Veteran Tim Kiniry

People from far and wide come to the museum to spend time with 104-year-old WWII Veteran Tim Kiniry! Tim has been visiting the museum monthly for informal presentations since spring of 2025.

Tim Kiniry, from Minotola, NJ, served in the US Army from 1942 to 1945. He was a medic at the Battle of the Bulge and at other European Theatre battles where his group treated thousands of prisoners in field hospitals located just behind battle lines. Tim treated prisoners at the Buchenwald Concentration Camp shortly after it was liberated.

Special Presentation from WWII Veteran Alan Shapiro educates and entertains guests at the Museum

Alan Shapiro, 18, at flight training in Georgia, 1943

U.S. Army Air Corps veteran Alan Shapiro, 100 years old, from Blue Bell, PA, spoke at a special event held at the Museum's Wyble Library on April 12, 2025.

He told about his experiences as a C-47 "Skytrain" pilot, flying missions against the Nazis, dropping paratroopers into Germany and supplying ammunition and fuel to allied tank units in Normandy.

Alan Shapiro was a 2nd Lieutenant in the 1st Allied Airborne, 316th Trooper Carrier Squadron. His amazing recollection of his experiences mixed with his tidbits of humor made this program truly educational and entertaining.

During the 80th Anniversary of D-day celebrations at Normandy in 2024, Alan had the opportunity to fly the Tunison Foundation's 1943 Douglas C-47 "Placid Lassie" over the skies of Europe. He was invited to fly a C-47 again at Normandy in 2025.

At the end of the presentation Alan was recognized by Sean Lockhead, Director of Veterans Affairs and Diana Breen, from the All Airborne Battalion, with honorary "jump wings" for his many contributions and support of paratroopers during WWII.

Thank you Alan Shapiro for your military service and for your friendship to our museum!

Movie Night Stars 2025

Marston "Butch" Mischlich, PhD

March 11

The author of Southern New Jersey — Pulling Together During World War II, Marston (Butch) Mischlich shared the story of Twin Lakes, the secret bomb manufacturing plant outside of Mays Landing. They developed and manufactured the M69 incendiary bomb there for the military.

The movie that followed his presentation, Ballfield to Battlefield and Back told the story of the 5000 professional baseball players who served in the armed forces during World War II. It is narrated by George Case, a famous major leaguer from South Jersey. The movie includes extensive home movies by Case of his fellow ballplayers.

Bob Dalessandro

September 9

A U.S. Army veteran himself, Bob Dalessandro spoke about the World War II service of his father, 2nd Lt. Anze (Andy) Dalessandro. Anze was a C-47 troop transport pilot and participated in three of the largest airborne operations of the War — Operation Market Garden, Bastogne (Battle of the Bulge), and Operation Varsity.

In lieu of a movie, Bob lead visitors to see the our C-47 nose, which is located in the Museum's historic courtyard. He also told about his own service with connection to the Museum's M60 Tank.

Artist Diane Rogers creates six WWII-style posters promoting the Millville Army Air Field Museum

Artist Diane Rogers, executive director of the Millville Riverfront Renaissance Center for the Arts, recently completed six unique posters promoting the important World War II history of the Millville Army Air Field, America's First Defense Airport.

The project, formally entitled WWII Posters — Building Connections to Millville Army Air Field History through Art, promotes the Air Field's history to the public through visual art.

The six art posters were created in graphite and color pencil by Rogers in the eye-catching style of WWII posters, but representing various themes associated with the Millville Army Air Field.

The important P-47 Thunderbolt fighter aircraft and its heroic pilots is highlighted along with additional themes including Women with Wings, the Tuskegee Airmen, Navajo Code Talkers, the Link Flight Simulator Trainer, and others important to the Millville Air Field's WWII history.

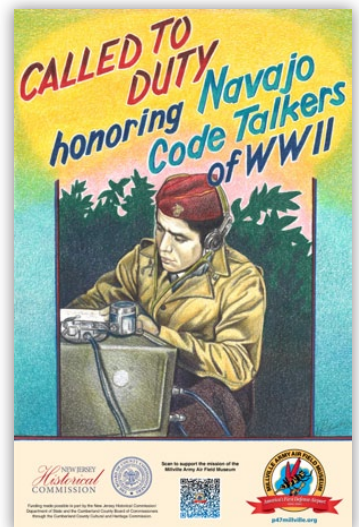

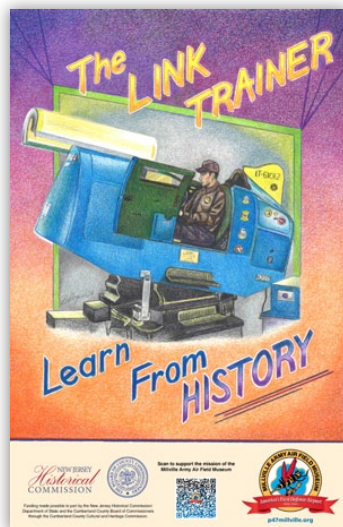

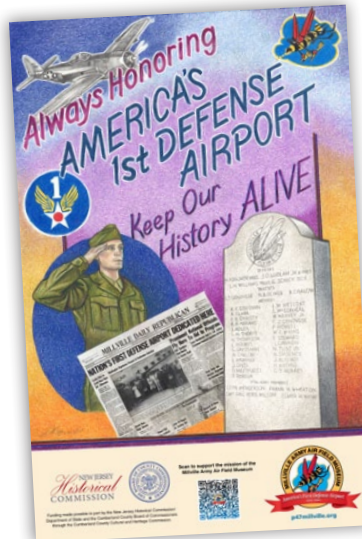

The Museum collaborated with Riverfront Renaissance Center for the Arts, a local partner in Cumberland County, to exhibit the posters. After an exhibit opening at the center, the posters were displayed publically for a month.

Three high schools in Cumberland County — Millville, Vineland, and Bridgeton — received copies of each poster and its description for use in their history classes. Digital versions of the posters with descriptions on how posters were used to recruit, raise war bond funds, and keep secrets, have been added to the Museum's website.

Funding for the poster project was made possible in part by the New Jersey Historical Commission/ Department of State and the Cumberland County Board of Commissioners through the Cumberland County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

MAAFM's 24th Annual Veterans Appreciation Day

There was a surprise presentation by Jack Smithson who recognized and thanked Lisa Jester, for 20 years of outstanding dedication and leadership as executive director of the Millville Army Air Field Museum.

Keeping with past traditions, Veterans Appreciation Day 2025 included students assisting from the Vineland High School U.S. Air Force ROTC cadets and youth members of the Cumberland Civil Air

Patrol, and Cumberland County Sheriff's Office Explorers —welcoming veterans and assisting with activities.

The day's activities featured its signature free 'Canteen' lunch for all visitors, sponsored by Verna's Flight Line Restaurant and Catering, that donated and prepared the food.

A very special thank you goes to the event's presenting sponsor, the Delaware River & Bay Authority. Thanks also extended to Wawa, Bottino's ShopRite, Angelic Healthcare, SupplyItAll, English Sewage and Disposal, and Fairfield by Marriott, for their donations that helped make this event a success.

Veteran Interview Project captures important veteran histories

The MAAFM Veteran Interview Project — a partnership between the Millville Army Air Field Museum and the Millville Public Schools — continues to preserve the important histories of veterans.

The program, which began in 2001, allows high school students the opportunity to interview and videotape veterans about their service history. Incredibly valuable first-person military histories have been documented.

To date more than 175 interviews have been recorded, given to veterans and their families, archived in the Museum's Wyble Library, with some submitted to the National Library of Congress.

Recently interviewed was 103-year-old World War II veteran John Hymer who served in the U.S. Army from October 14, 1942 to December 26, 1945, in the historic 34th Infantry Division, the Red Bull Division, first in North Africa and then Italy. He fought in the brutal campaigns to liberate the Italian peninsula from the Nazis, including Salerno, Anzio, and the Gustav Line. Battles included Monte Cassino, Pisa, Florence, and Bologna.

A highly decorated Private First Class, John Hymer received two Bronze Stars, two Distinguished Service Medals, and a Purple Heart. He also received three medals for being an expert marksman.

Originally from Stow Creek, NJ, Hymer is a resident of the Vineland Veterans Home.

High school student Mason Cain had the opportunity to interview John Hymer while cameras were rolling — first hand accounts for use in the Veteran Interview Project.

As part of the Veteran Interview Project supported by the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, Dr. William Carrigan, Rowan University History Professor, spoke to Millville High School AP History students about the importance of oral histories and provided interviewing techniques and tips.

Dr. Carrigan was also interviewed by Millville High School senior Jenna Dacy and provided historical background for a detailed video she created about the famous 442nd Combat Battalion composed of Japanese-Americans during WWII. Dacy had earlier attended the Museum's Celebration of the 442nd event. She interviewed attendees who had connections to soldiers in the 442nd and used those clips within her video.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum thanks Dr. Carrigan for sharing his knowledge and expertise.

Above top: Millville High School senior Jenna Dacy, participated in several interviews with veterans and created quality videos for the Veteran Interview Project. Many thanks to Jenna for sharing her interest and talent.

NEW JERSEY COUNCIL FOR THE HUMANITIES

Support for the MAAFM Veteran Interview Project was made possible by a grant from the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, a state partner of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations expressed in this program do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities or the New Jersey Council for the Humanities.

Connections made to the Red Bull Division through the Veteran Interview Project

Grace Ucciferri, from Vineland, NJ, is shown here with John Hymer. Her late father was in the 34th Infantry Red Bull Division as was John, so she was thrilled to attend. Grace donated several items from her father's service during WWII, including a stoneware pitcher and glasses set. Her father commissioned a small shop in Italy to make them for him with the Red Bull insignia on it. The pitcher is seen in front of Hymer during the interview.

2025 Summer Program teaches students both aviation and history

The Museum held its annual high school summer camp, sponsored this year by the New Jersey Council for Humanities.

Students were immersed in World War II history, learning through artifacts, veteran interviews, original letters, and rare books. The sessions took great advantage of the Wyble Research Library and Educational Center and the print and electronic resources available there

Students received guided tours and descriptions of exhibits in the Museum where they learned about various aspects from the different theaters of World War II. Most importantly, they had the incredible opportunity to meet and interview three veterans from the War.,

Students also learned about aviation and related careers. They viewed aircraft and talked to pilots. In one session, they were taught the fundamentals of flight, built balsa wood planes, and then flew them on the grounds of the airport. A special trip was taken to the grounds of the New Jersey Motorsports Park where the students saw the original boresight range built in World War II for pilot training at the Millville Army Air Field. There, they viewed the large mural dedicated to the range. They also studied the detailed murals on different buildings located back at the Museum campus. These were all completed by renowned mural artist Sam Donovan, who passed away earlier in 2025.

The Summer Program, which took place from July 1 to 31, was hosted by the Millville Board of Education and the Millville Army Air Field Museum.

Tribute to Hugh McElroy

Hugh E. McElroy

Died February 2, 2025

The Millville Army Air Field Museum lost a very special friend with the passing of former chairman of the board Hugh McElroy, who never stopped serving the aviation community and fully supported the mission of our Museum.

Hugh McElroy served as the Museum's chairman of the board from 2003 to 2005. At that time Hugh was vice president and general manager of Dallas Airmotive, Inc., an aviation service company that employed 300 people at Millville Airport. He had served on the MAAFM board of directors since 1999.

"We were so fortunate to have Hugh McElroy take the lead in moving the Millville Army Air Field Museum into the future," said Russell Davis, MAAFM president at the time. "Prior to joining the MAAFM board of directors, Hugh offered continued support in preserving the history of Millville Airport. For many years Hugh offered his assistance in making Museum projects successful. His extensive aviation background and visionary ideas were a tremendous asset to the Museum."

In addition to his position on the board of directors at the Millville Army Air Field Museum, McElroy was chairman of the New Jersey

Aviation Association (NJAA), representing airports, aircraft operating companies, manufacturers, aviation vendors, service companies, and pilots involved in the billion dollar aviation industry in New Jersey.

His career began in the late 1970s, when he was an engineer with Avco Lycoming in Stratford Connecticut. He left Avco Lycoming in 1980, relocating to Millville, NJ to serve as a quality engineer and eventually manager, general manager, and vice president for Airwork Corporation. During this period, which included GE's purchase of Airwork, he became an FAA Consulting DER and a Consulting DAR. He remained at this location until its closure in 2004, seeing another sale to Dallas Airmotive in 1998.

He then moved to Dallas to become president of Dallas Airmotive. He quickly became part of the Dallas business community including several years as aboard member of the Dallas Frontiers of Flight Museum.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum recognized Hugh in 2012 when a wing of the Museum was named in his honor.

"Hugh was my mentor for many years," said Lisa Jester, MAAFM executive director. "I will always be thankful for his guidance, friendship, support and integrity. He will truly be missed by all of his associates from Airwork/Dallas Airmotive and we will always honor his memory here at the Museum."

Hugh is survived by his wife Judy. He is remembered fondly by his friends at the Museum and for his many contributions.

Hugh McElroy ...thank you for your vision, leadership, guidance, professionalism and your heart!

*Hugh E. McElroy
Chairman Emeritus
Millville Army Air Field Museum*

As chairman of the board of directors, Hugh McElroy brought vision and advancement to the Millville Army Air Field Museum — recognizing the important aviation history that took place at Millville Airport.

In Memoriam

Rocky Gannon during WWII and at Millville Airshow 2015

Rocky Gannon

Died June 4, 2024, at age 99

As a student at Ocean City High School, R.J. "Rocky" Gannon was inspired by the P-47 pilots from Millville Army Air Field as they flew their planes over the school while training over the Atlantic Ocean. He enlisted and was accepted into pilot training just before the end of his junior year. While still just a teenager, he was a B-17 pilot during World War II.

"Rocky" Gannon had a long and distinguished career in the United States Air Force. He was a B-17 pilot with the 8th Air Force during WWII, flew for 18 months in Korea, and had an astounding 387 missions during the Vietnam War. In his extraordinary career, Rocky flew more than 6000 hours in 34 different types of aircraft. He received numerous awards including the Distinguished Flying Cross and Bronze Star.

After 37 years of service, Rocky retired as Lt. Colonel from the Air Force and became an international aviation consultant specializing in airports and air traffic control.

Rocky visited the Museum many times providing valued information and guidance based on his experience. We were honored to know him and will continue to keep his legacy alive.

Selwyn Lurie

Died July 17, 2025, at age 102

A South African native, Selwyn volunteered to serve as a pilot in World War II. He first flew Hurricanes with the Royal Air Force in North Africa before conducting the majority of his missions in P-47 Thunderbolt Fighters against the Japanese in the China-Burma-India Theater.

Selwyn Lurie, from San Diego, CA, flew in two theatres of the war. He was with the 135th Squadron of the RAF, which was located in Chittagong, Bangladesh. Among other operations, he was involved in the mission to capture the air field and deep sea port on Akyab Island and flew long-range missions against the Japanese in Rangoon in 1944. He survived five crashes caused by weather or mechanical malfunctions.

Selwyn was a great friend to the Museum, sharing his unique knowledge about the P-47 and its capabilities in different theaters of the War.

Charles "Sandy" E. Wentzell

Died September 4, 2025, at age 102

Tech Sergeant Charles "Sandy" Wentzell flew 30 combat missions with the U.S. 8th Air Force during World War II, including the first mission to Berlin March 6, 1944. He also served in the Korean War as a radio operator in a Tactical Air Control Party, calling in airstrikes and artillery fire against the enemy. During one frontline combat operation, he was captured. Held prisoner in a small prison yard, he managed to escape. After eleven days on the run, he made his way to American lines. For his heroism, the South Korean government honored him. "Sandy" resided in Salem, NJ.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum Honors the Memory of Mural Artist Sam Donovan

On behalf of the Millville Army Air Field Museum, it is our privilege to recognize, remember and honor our very special friend Sam Donovan, who passed on April 22, 2025.

Sam Donovan was an extraordinarily talented mural artist from Woodstown, New Jersey, who created vivid visuals of the important World War II history that took place at the Millville Army Air Field — America's First Defense Airport. Sam's murals truly define Millville Airport's military and aviation history.

The Museum's relationship with Sam Donovan began in 1998 when he was commissioned by local community leader and veteran B-24 gunner George Curio — to create a mural honoring Millville's World War II history and honor all those who served. The result — Millville's World War II "Wall of Remembrance" Mural stands majestically 3-stories high on the north wall of Millville's City Hall at High and Main Streets.

The Wall of Remembrance Mural that Donovan created put Millville's World War II history on the map and continues to do so more than 25 years later. Thanks to him, The Wall of Remembrance captures the essence of Millville's contributions to America's WWII history while honoring all of our veteran heroes.

Throughout the years, Donovan created five other historically informative murals for the Museum —

The 55-foot World War II History Mural located on the hangar on Leddon Street was dedicated in 2011. The mural features images of World War II pilots

William Rich and Bernie Borelli, who served at the Millville Army Air Field during World War II as combat flight instructors. Each flew numerous missions in P-47 Thunderbolt fighter planes from bases in England during the war. The two pilots, who lived locally until their passing, also served as chairmen of the Millville Army Air Field Museum.

The next stunning mural is located at New Jersey Motorsports Park. The Historic World War II Boresight Range Mural is one of the last existing examples of what was once an integral part of airbase operations for air-to-ground and air-to-air gunnery training during World War II.

The final three murals created and painted by Donovan are located in the Museum's Historic Courtyard. They are: the Link Trainer Flight Simulator Mural, dedicated in 2017; the Commemorative World War II Fire Department Mural, dedicated in 2019; and the Air-to-Air Gunnery Training Mural, dedicated in 2020. Each of these murals has an interpretive display that explains the history they represent.

The Millville Army Air Field Museum is honored to remember and commemorate mural artist Sam Donovan, for his insight in designing and producing our beautiful murals. We thank Sam for his awesome work and a lifetime of dedication to the Museum's mission.

The Museum also salutes Sam Donovan as a U.S. Air Force Veteran and we honor his service.

God bless you Sam and thank you!

MILLVILLE ARMY AIR FIELD MUSEUM MEMBERS & FRIENDS

A rare coincidence in October ... MAAFM Advisory Board Member Zachary King, right, ran into WWII veteran John Quinesso from Vineland, NJ, in Washington, DC. in October.

Jeffrey Smith, a painter for EEC Static Display Aircraft Painting of Center Valley, PA, painted our M60 Battle Tank in June. Funding was provided by the Cumberland County Cultural & Heritage Commission.

Museum President Jerry Carey volunteered to paint the future home of Thunderbolt Pizza, located in Historic Building 20. He is assisted by Ed Cox, museum member and volunteer. Special thanks to Home Depot for donating Glidden paint for the job.

A Special Thank You ... goes out to Albert "AJ" DeNovellis, a student from Cumberland County Technical Education Center, who volunteered on Sundays for months and learned all about the museum. He welcomed visitors and gave tours. AJ graduated and headed off to Franklin and Marshall College in September. Hope you'll stop by to visit!
